SENATE FARM BLOCK DELAYS TARIFF FIGHT

CLAIM ENOUGH VOTES TO WRECK REPUBLICAN BILL

BI-PARTISAN GROUP UNABLE TO AGREE, HOWEVER, ON HOW TO GO ABOUT IT

OPENING OF THEIR CONTEST
MAY BE DELAYED UNTIL MONDAY

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Claiming enough votes to wreck the $600,000,000 republican bill, the bi-partisan senate farm bloc was unable to agree today on how to go about it, so the opening of their contest against the measure probably will be delayed until Monday.

Leaders of the bloc on both the democratic and republican sides have agreed to drop the Thomas resolution which seeks to eliminate all the industrial rate increases in the bill, preserving only the higher rates for agriculture.

Senator Borah of Idaho in whose office the republican bloc members are holding daily meetings, favors a motion to recommit the bill to the senate finance committee with instructions to pare down the increases to agricultural and related products.

Democrats who are holding their own daily meetings in the offices of various party members have indicated they might go along on a motion to recommit, but indicated they would like to have the motion come from the republican side of the chamber.

The republicans are watching these preliminary troubles of the bloc with glee. Even if the bloc has the majority it claims it would not dare to risk wrecking the whole bill, according to the administration group.

Borah claims to have won two votes since his resolution was defeated 38 to 39, but if some democrats absented themselves from the chamber or changed their votes, Borah's theoretical majority would be wiped out.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson, minority floor leader, is returning today for a series of conferences among his own party leaders and some satisfactory plan for an opposition program then may develop.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Senate democrats decided in conference today not to sponsor a movement at this time to wreck the republican tariff bill by seeking to eliminate all save the agricultural schedules.

The democrats changed the whole aspect of the tariff battle by working out a plan whereby they will seek on Monday to bring up the administrative features of the pending senate measure, delaying action on the rate schedules.

St. Paul, Sept. 4.—Fifty farmer-labor leaders of Minnesota, including former Senator Magnus Johnson, met here today to launch a statewide party organization and an attack on the administration tariff and farm relief measures.

Frank W. Starkey, St. Paul, state representative, sounded the keynote of the convention when he declared: "Every genuine move for farm relief has been opposed by the Harding-Coolidge-Hoover regime."

The farmer-labor party chiefs planned late today to outline plans for a unified front in the next state elections.

MODERN WOODMEN RATE RAISE REVIEWED IN MINNESOTA COURT

St. Cloud, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Judge J. A. Roeder announced here today that upon the petition of officers of the Modern Woodmen of America, the federal court at Fergus Falls will settle the question of whether insurance rates recently announced by the organization will go into effect in Minnesota.

Minnesota members of the order recently objected to the increased rates and were granted a temporary injunction which prevented them from going into effect pending court action.

Since the injunction was issued other members of the lodge pointed out that the state courts could do nothing in the matter since the Woodmen were incorporated under the laws of Illinois.

BODY OF BOY IS FOUND IN RIVER

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—The body of a boy, believed that of Harold Helseth, 10, Minneapolis, who fell 60 feet into the Mississippi river Wednesday while at play, was found near the Ford bridge here today. Harold was playing on the Washington avenue bridge when he lost his balance and fell.

Freight Rate Reduction on Export Grain Authorized

Washington, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—The Interstate Commerce commission issued a special order today authorizing railroads in southwestern and Mississippi valley states to reduce rates on export grain shipments to Gulf ports on one day's notice.

MEEK RABBIT ATTACKS PYTHON, COWES RATTLES

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Turned into a pen with rattlesnakes and a 15-foot python a meek rabbit surprised state fair patrons here by attacking the reptiles. He cowed the rattlers in one corner and then bit the python, which had already dined, and over-looked the insult.

CLEMENCEAU'S ILLNESS AT AN ALARMING STAGE

SPECIALIST, DR. L. DE GENNES, WHO ATTENDED FOCH, IS SUMMONED

FRENCH WAR PREMIER NOW IN
88TH YEAR, SUFFERING FROM POOR HEALTH

Paris, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—The illness of George Clemenceau, French war premier and one of the authors of the treaty of Versailles, reached an alarming stage today and caused the physician attending him to summon to Vendee the eminent specialist, Doctor L. DeGennes, who attended Field Marshal Foch during the latter's last hours.

Clemenceau, now in his eighty-eighth year, has been suffering from poor health for several weeks. He was not considered ill until a few days ago when pulmonary congestion developed. The physician attending him battled with the condition until today when he decided to bring Doctor DeGennes to the bedside.

ALMOST IDEAL WEATHER AT STATE FAIR

PROMISES TO LURE ADDED
THOUSANDS TO THE EXHIBITION

SHOWERS YESTERDAY PLAYED
HAVOC WITH ATTENDANCE
RECORDS

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Almost ideal weather conditions and a double entertainment program today promised to lure added thousands to the Minnesota state fair and Northwest Livestock Exposition.

Almost hourly rain showers Wednesday caused postponement of the auto races scheduled as the feature of the grand stand program and served to reduce the attendance to half the predicted figures. But 41,837 persons passed through the turnstiles compared to 72,545 on the corresponding day last year.

Reservations were expected to increase proportionately today, however, as both automobile and horse racing fans were attracted by the double bill. The auto races originally scheduled for Wednesday were placed on today's program together with the regular horse racing schedule.

Other features of the grand performance today included airplane stunt flying and vaudeville acts.

A large delegation of visitors from the Head of the Lakes district was expected today, which is designated as Duluth Day. Special programs also were arranged for Minnesota Farm Bureau members and members of the Minnesota Pioneers, Pioneer's Guild and Minnesota Veteran Cavalry.

BRING EFFIGY OF LATE POLICE CHIEF IN COURT

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—A black-draped life-size effigy of the late Police Chief O. F. Aderholt of Gastonia was brought into the court room where 16 textile strikers are being tried for his murder today. Defense attorneys jumped to their feet shouting objections.

State attorneys ordered the model to enable Dr. H. R. MacDonnell, Gastonia, the first state witness, to point out where the peace officer had been shot.

GET ONE DEMAND, STRIKE FOR ANOTHER

New York, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Members of two local unions of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, including about 7,500 men, went on strike today for an eight hour day after employers had granted a demand for time and a half for overtime work.

High Pressure Salesmanship Reaches New Area, Bootlegging Industry Thrives in Super-Sales

LIQUOR RING UNCOVERED BY ST. PAUL AGENTS

HOTEL

LABELS, STRIP STAMPS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—High-pressure salesmanship has reached the bootlegging industry and in a big way, federal agents revealed here today following a raid in Minneapolis said to have uncovered a liquor ring with a net income of $10,000 monthly.

The super-sales establishment in the Majestic hotel, according to Maurice Silverman, state informant chief, contained a complete bottling room, fake labels, strip stamps and all the other equipment required to transform cut alcohol into "Canadian Scotch" fresh from the border.

Four men—William Shaw, said to be the hotel owner, Clarence Leslie, a bellhop, Wilford Miller and Patrick McBride—were arrested and were said to have revealed the "super-sales" system.

The "salesmen" approached the prospective customer with a sample package containing four bottles of liquor which they promised had been secured from customs men on the border, "all confiscated stuff."

The customer usually fell for the ruse, it was said, at a price "one dollar under the market price today."

As a result of the raid the four men are faced with conspiracy charges and abatement proceedings may soon be instituted against the hotel.

SECRETARY HURLEY NARROWLY ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY

Belleville, Ill., Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Assistant Secretary of War Col. Patrick Hurley narrowly escaped injury when a two-seater bi-plane in which he was flying from Kansas City to Washington crashed in a field near here today. Col. Hurley's pilot became lost in a fog, he said, and was attempting to make a forced landing. Neither was hurt. Both were to continue to Washington by train.

OFFICERS OF COLLIDING STEAMERS FACE TRIAL

San Francisco, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Officers of the S. T. C. Dodd and surviving officers of the San Juan, two ships which collided off the central California coast last week, must face trial on charges of inattention to duty, negligence and unskillfulness.

HARROWING TALES OF DISASTER, DISTRESS IN THE PHILIPPINES

Manila, P. I., Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—While Manila faced a grave crisis as water was rationed out for drinking purposes only, reports from the typhoon stricken districts of the islands poured in today with harrowing tales of disaster and distress.

Latest reports to the United Press placed the dead at 53, including 11 school children who were killed in the province of Laguna, Luzon island.

Reports indicated that the death toll and property damage will mount much higher after reports from all sections struck by the typhoon are received.

A dam burst in the province of Bulacan, Luzon island, caused tremendous property loss. Because of faulty communication it was not known how many died as a result of this post-typhoon disaster.

Citizens of Manila, while doing everything in their power to alleviate the situation in the stricken provinces, faced stoically a water famine that may continue for a week or more.

Authorities issued water three times today—one drink being given to each person at breakfast, lunch and dinner. Water cannot be used for any purpose except drinking until a supply of fresh and safe water is available.

DEATH WRITES TRAGIC ENDING TO SPEED PILOT

3 DAYS' SEARCH REVEALS BODY
OF MAJOR JOHN H. WOOD
IN ROCKY DESERT

RACING PLANE STRUCK BY LIGHTNING AND HURLED TO SUDDEN END

Needles, Cal., Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Death wrote a tragic ending today to the three-day search for Major John J. Wood, noted speed pilot, whose racing plane was struck by lightning and hurled to the rocky desert south of here Monday.

A searching party, which included Ward Miller, Wood's mechanic, who escaped in a parachute after their monoplane was struck by lightning, found Wood's body late yesterday in the wreckage of the plane in which he hoped to win the cross-country speed race of the national air races at Cleveland.

Wood's mangled body was found by Burrell Smith, Los Angeles pilot, who landed on the rocky surface near the spot where the racing monoplane crashed.

WORK FEVERISHLY TO RESCUE FOUR MINERS FROM TOMB

SLIDE OF 400 TONS OF ROCK IM-
PRISONED QUARTET OF CALI-FORNIA MEN

ACCIDENT OCCURRED AT 1550
FOOT LEVEL OF CALVERAS
COPPER CO. PROPERTY

Angeles Camp, Calif., Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—All through the night and today fresh crews relieved exhausted men in a feverish attempt to rescue four miners from a tomb caused by a slide of more than 400 tons of rock in the 1550-foot level of the Calveras Copper Company mine at Copperopolis yesterday.

Four men were either crushed to death or buried alive by the avalanche. A fifth was located early today with a huge boulder pinning him down, while another was rescued in a badly crushed condition.

The four men who are beneath the mass of rocks are: Edward Bixler of Oakland; J. King of Jackson, Calif.; Gonzalo Gonzalez, of Copperopolis and an unknown miner.

The fifth miner located beneath a boulder is Jose Medley, a Mexican. The boulder, which imprisons him, is in such a position that use of levers to raise the weight would further imperil the man's life.

2 YOUNG GANGSTERS MEET SUDDEN END

Chicago, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—A hail of shotgun slugs and machine gun bullets brought to a sudden close today the gangsters careers of two young men barely out of their "teens."

The bodies of "Cy" Cawley and Edward Westcott were found on a sidewalk in front of the Jacob A. Ritz park on the West Side at dawn today. Both men apparently had been slain where they were found. Shotgun slugs had been fired into their backs and automatic bullets into their chests.

Police said the murders undoubtedly were committed by avengers in gang warfare. Both Cawley and Westcott had been questioned in recent bombings and robberies.

CONSTITUTION WEEK IS SET FOR SEPTEMBER 15-21

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—State-wide observance of Constitution week, Sept. 15 to 21, was urged today by Governor Theodore Christianson.

The governor requested all Minnesota to study the basic document of the United States and "active expounding of the principles" of the Constitution.

"In a real sense the Constitution is being ratified or rejected by citizens everywhere every day. Let us rally to the standard which Washington raised when he said 'Let us raise a standard to which the wise and the honest can repair; the event is in the hands of God.'"

September 17 marks the 142nd anniversary of the signing of the historic document.

FATE OF AIR LINER IS STILL A DEEP MYSTERY

UP TO NOON NO DEFINITE CON-FIRMATION THAT IT HAD CRASHED

"CITY OF SAN FRANCISCO" CAR-
RIED CREW OF 3 AND 5
PASSENGERS

Gallup, N. M., Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Fifty hours after the trans-continental air transport corporation's liner "City of San Francisco" sailed westbound out of the Albuquerque airport, the fate of the ship and its five passengers and a crew of three remained a mystery today.

Up to noon no definite confirmation had been received of reports that the graceful ship was down with all hands dead, presumably from a bolt of lightning in the wild country south of Gallup.

William H. Beers, New York City.

Gallup, N. M., Sept. 5.—Hundreds of Zuni and Navajo Indians, in picturesque dress, joined scores of ranchers and a fleet of airplanes today in an effort to find the airplane liner City of San Francisco, reported to have crashed near Zuni, N. M., 40 miles south of Gallup, in a terrific electrical storm Tuesday.

The airplane carried five passengers and a crew of three en route from Albuquerque to Los Angeles. An unofficial report that a trans-continental air transport plane had sighted the wreckage this morning could not be confirmed. Officials at Zuni said they had no information to verify it.

The report said three airplanes had found the wrecked ship and were flying to Gallup. Company officers here had no information to substantiate the rumor, they said.

The search today turned in two directions. One party was working 15 or 20 miles west of Zuni, where Indians maintained they had seen an airplane fall.

The other, and larger party, penetrated the rough "bad lands" in Black Rock Wash, east of Zuni, where a mail carrier, making his rural route rounds, reported he had seen the plane.

Terrible rain storms since Tuesday had turned the narrow mountain roadways into seas of mud. Automobiles virtually were helpless and pack horses and men afoot had to be depended upon.

But in the face of the handicaps the determined searching parties pushed on through the mud that sometimes was over their shoe tops.

Every man who could be spared at Zuni joined the search. Scores of Gallup business men brought out their automobiles and began the slow drive to Zuni through the mud.

All were determined to find the City of San Francisco and clear up the mystery of what happened to the graceful plane which took off from Albuquerque Tuesday morning on its regular flight to Los Angeles.

SPEED HOLMAN WINS ANOTHER RACE

St. Paul, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Charles (Speed) Holman, ace of the Northwest Airways, has such a strong habit of winning races that today he was announced the winner of a contest at the Cleveland aerial exposition in which he was at first disqualified.

Race officials informed Holman today that although there was no question that he cut a corner in the 75 mile race he was so far ahead of the other contestants that it would be injustice to let the disqualification stand.

ADMINISTRATION ADOPTS FORMULA AS PROPOUNDED

SECRETARY OF STATE STIMSON
SAYS IT MEETS OBJECTIONS
OF SENATE

PROTECTS U. S. BY 5 RESERVA-
TIONS TO AMERICAN
ADHERENCE

Washington, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Elihu Root's formula for American adherence to the world court was formally adopted as an administration project today.

Secretary of State Stimson announced the Root formula met the objections of the senate and fully protected the United States against dangers anticipated by the senate in adopting five reservations to American adherence.

American acceptance of the formula is conditional upon ratification by other court members and about a year is expected to elapse before ratifications are complete and the formula can be submitted to the senate, it was said.

Representatives of 40 world court members at Geneva yesterday unanimously approved the Root formula. President Hoover's readiness to adopt the formula as an administration measure was exclusively reviewed by the United Press Aug. 19.

On Aug. 14, Stimson said today, he sent a note to the League of Nations secretary-general, saying the formula met with his approval.

The purpose of the Root formula is to compromise the stalemate created by world court members refusal to approve American court membership on the terms of the senate reservations. The technical effect of the Root formula will be acceptance by court members of the senate reservations subject to the amendments which compromise the formula.

The senate will not be required to go through the motions of renouncing the reservations although in fact the Root plan will be substituted for them.

An official text of the Root plan as published by the League of Nations shows the concessions demanded by the senate are not wholly agreed to in the formula. The fifth senate reservation said the court shall not "without the consent of the United States entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

The fifth article of the Root formula deals with this problem. It promises "that there shall be attributed to an objection of the United States the same force and effect as attaches to a vote against asking for the opinion given by a member of the League of Nations in the council or in the assembly." But a single objection by a league member cannot prevent the court from entertaining a request for an opinion.

PALESTINE IS QUIETER TODAY

ONLY ISOLATED CASES OF AT-TEMPTED LOOTING OF JEW-ISH HOMES

Jerusalem, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—With the exception of isolated cases of attempted looting of evacuated Jewish homes by Arab tribesmen near the border, Palestine was quieter today than it had been since the serious rioting broke out nearly two weeks ago.

The British troops dispatched here from various points of the empire to quell the disturbances apparently controlled the situation. The cities remained under double patrol.

British soldiers were reported to have surrounded an organized band of Trans-Jordan Arabs near the frontier following a clash between the troops and the invaders at the foot of Mount Tabor. The troops were rushed from Fule to apprehend the Moslems who had been reported stealing cattle.

Many of the Arabs fled. The extent of the casualties was unknown.

AUTHORITIES PROBE ASSERTED KIDNAPING OF FARM YOUTH

Shakopee, Minn., Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Scott county authorities today continued to investigate the asserted abduction last Saturday of Edward Hennen, 14, farm boy while Harms, 45-year-old farm hand was held for further questioning under a 14-day sentence for vagrancy.

Harms was arrested Sunday after Edward was found bound hand and foot by barbed wire in a pasture near his home. The boy said he had been carried there by a man he later identified as Harms, and left for six hours in a blazing sun. He was otherwise uninjured.

Harms has maintained since his arrest that he was not in this region on Saturday.

Continues Each Evening at Full Gospel Assembly With Rev. Jackson as Speaker

A fine crowd was in attendance at the Full Gospel Assembly last night to hear Evangelist V. R. Jackson who delivered a stirring message from Math 16:26. "For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

The evangelist stated that the great majority are placing their souls on the Devil's Auction Table and receiving in exchange fame, fortune, knowledge and the pleasures of this world for a season and that in the end instead of having the satisfaction—promised by the devil they have an empty aching heart, void of the only thing that can make man happy which is the Love of God manifested through Jesus Christ the Son.

The services will continue each night at 8 o'clock and tomorrow night a great Divine Healing service will be held and the sick will be prayed for.

The Life Span

ONE of the best known modern philosophers and authors takes the startling position that most men ought to die at 35, says the St. Cloud Times. At 40, he claims, men are but a reminiscence, that at 35 the average man is at the height of his life curve and should be put out of the way at that zenith. That he lacks the courage of his convictions is apparent from the fact that he is now 44 years old and still looks both ways at street crossings. And he has produced his greatest literary works in the past five years.

The suggestion has aroused indignant protest from men and women in all walks of life and of all ages above 35. These point out that most of the great achievements in history were consummated by men past the two score mark. And great men of history have been highly productive even to the age of 80.

To the average man it appears that the philosopher has overlooked one important consideration. Even should it be granted that most men are at the height of their curve at 35, which probably of itself is untrue, it does not follow that other important work may not be accomplished while the curve is receding. Would the world be better off without such accomplishment, even though it were not quite up to that which was effected at 35?

The theory that there is no place in the industrial scheme for men past the so-called prime of life is rapidly losing ground. While it cannot be denied that the enthusiasm of youth is a valuable asset, it is equally true that with age comes experience, and experience is indispensable. Society would be distinctly the loser if such men as Edison, Ford, the elder Morgan, Rockefeller and Gary had been taken out of production at the age of 35.

Howard Melaney on New Circuit

HOWARD MELANEY, well known lyric tenor who has sung over the air from more than 90 radio stations in the United States and Canada, started September 1 to cover a new circuit which will require 2,500 miles of travel each week.

Mr. Melaney, who is known as the "Singing Fireman of the Northern Pacific Railway," hereafter will sing each Monday night at station WOC, Davenport; Tuesday nights at KMOX, St. Louis; Wednesdays, WLW, Cincinnati; Thursdays, WLS, Chicago; and Fridays, KMBC, Kansas City.

Until three years ago, Mr. Melaney was an obscure locomotive fireman employed by the Northern Pacific on its North Coast Limited in Montana. His rise to fame was spectacular. His voice discovered by a music critic who chanced to hear Mr. Melaney sing while he was tuning up his locomotive at a Montana terminal, he was given an opportunity to sing in the studio of a Minneapolis radio station. Since that date he has been in demand as a radio and concert singer throughout the United States. His radio engagement here carried him from New York to Los Angeles and from Toronto to New Orleans.

Mr. Melaney was the center of attraction at the aviators' banquet given at the time of the opening of the Rosko airport.

No Freight Rate Increases

THE shipping public's fear of freight rate increases resulting from the supreme court's recent decision in the O'Fallon case is unfounded, in the opinion of M. L. Countryman, Jr., general attorney of the Northern Pacific Railway, who recently addressed a service club in Minneapolis on the subject.

"In my judgment," he said, "the decision of the supreme court, if followed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in spirit as well as in letter, will have no appreciable effect upon the general level of rates in this country."

In reviewing the case and decision, Mr. Countryman declared that rates are not made for individual railroads but for groups of railroads competing within the same territory. Rates are to be based upon the aggregate value and not upon the values of individual roads.

Again, when it comes to determining the general level of rates the Interstate Commerce Commission fixes, not only the valuations, it should be remembered, but also the percentage of return that is to be taken as fair.

The commission thus has ample control of the situation when it comes to the matter of rate increases. Mr. Countryman does not look for any substantial increases in the general level of rates in the United States as a result of the O'Fallon decision.

A New Merger

THE St. Cloud Times has bought the St. Cloud Journal-Press. The publisher of the Times is a Democrat, the editor of the Journal-Press a Republican. The latter continues with the Times.

This is something new in mergers. Governor Christianson in his letter to the Times praises Alvah Eastman as being one of the best editorial writers in the state.

"He (Eastman) has urged the cause of Republicanism with great ability for many decades," writes the Governor, "and although I realize from your (Schilpin) life-long affiliation with the Democratic Party that a consolidated newspaper cannot be a Republican organ, I also know from your attitude of courageous independence, the paper will not be hidebound in its partisanship. If it should be your policy to present both sides of the political issue, I know of no one in the State who would be better able to present the side which I represent than Mr. Eastman."

Youth Upsets Records

AND now golf, like baseball and football, carries its surprises and upsets. Young Johnny Goodman proved to be a flash in the pan, but nevertheless he upset the mighty Jones.

Youth, unafraid, unawed by precedent and record, upsets leaders in golf. We have seen some of the big boys in golf upended and they walked to the scoreboard and growled, "Scratch my name off," and would not stay over for any consolation play.

To round out its war and famine relief work, the Near East Relief will have to continue its activities for about two years more. Barclay Acheson, Director General of Overseas Operations, told the United Press correspondent during a brief visit recently in Moscow.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

EDDIE REGAN has been persuaded to join a gang of which the "Big Guy" is the leader. Bernice Veressi, "gang girl," is in love with Eddie, but he becomes disgusted and breaks away. Boarding a freight train, he goes to Virginia, where he meets Marian Thorndike and Penfield Paradine. Paradine, member of an aristocratic Southern family, dies and leaves Eddie all his possessions. Determined to make the farm, which he has inherited, a paying proposition, Eddie starts to work, more to establish himself in Marian's good graces than for profit. He realizes the gulf which yawns between them, but is fired with hope.

CHAPTER XI.

SOME faint result of his new life became stamped upon him physically. His skin darkened a shade from exposure to the sun and there was a ruddy undertone of color in his cheeks. His muscles hardened and the blue of his eyes became clearer. A new elasticity got into his body and, slowly, the mark of the city began to fade.

Even his voice—that all-revealing clue to the inner man—was subtly losing its slightly nasal New York accent and becoming faintly softer, more leisurely.

Inescapably, he suffered from loneliness.

All of his life he had been used to the clamor of the city—to the close contact of thousands, yes millions of his fellow beings. Noise and electric lights had been filling his hearing and his sight—these, he sometimes missed with a queer nostalgia when he sat alone reading by a kerosene lamp in the large lonesome house.

But never did he yearn for the old gang or the fervid sensation of Bernice Veressi's presence. He missed human companionship in general; specifically, he was merely enduring the passage of time until he could reestablish association with Marian Thorndike. Yet it was not possible for him to escape meeting a few of his neighbors. He saw them at the general store and there were haphazard encounters in the road.

A number of the old-established families became known to him by name and he had a bare speaking acquaintance with several of their men folk. Because he was the heir of Penfield Paradine he was distantly and grudgingly accepted as having some remote connection with the upper class, but, in practice, it amounted to nothing.

The truth was that he was a recluse who cared hardly at all whether anyone ever spoke to him or not, so long as he could look forward to the time when he would again see Marian.

The meeting, when it did come, was sharply unexpected. He was sitting in the front room with a book in his lap; early dusk was falling and he had not yet lit the lamp. To be, having finished his kitchen duties, had gone off to bed.

A step in the hall aroused him. Eddie turned his head and the next instant he was on his feet.

"Marian—Miss Marian!" he said, amazed and bewildered.

Her face was white and stained. One of her hands sought the side of the wall for support, the other pressed to her side. She wore riding clothes, as usual—he had never seen her in a dress except at Penfield's funeral—but there was a strange and disheveled look about her.

It seemed to him as though she were about to topple and he led her to a chair, holding her arm.

"My horse stumbled—a broken culvert in the road—" "You're hurt!" he said, painfully.

"It was a new horse and he got frightened and plunged over the ditch against a tree. I'm afraid—I was unconscious for a while—" His face was as white as her own.

"You might have been killed," he said in an awe-stricken voice.

"And then—and then—" She was suffering from pain and shock, but she managed to smile at his seriousness.

"I'm not that fragile," she assured him. "I don't know where the horse got to—went home, probably. But I don't feel quite up to struggling home on foot myself. Your house was the nearest place—I wondered if you would telephone my father to come after me—"

"You might have been killed," Eddie repeated, unable to rid his head of that one terrible idea. Marian Thorndike had enough womanly intuition to read the distress in his eyes and voice. No man, unless he were terribly in love, could look and speak that way . . .

Before Eddie felt free to telephone Marian's father, he realized the necessity of knowing how severely she was injured.

His mind leaped to the idea of first summoning a doctor. There was a long red scratch on her forehead just beneath the soft gold of her hair. Despite her smile it was evident she was in pain. One hand kept pressing to her side and Eddie visioned a cruel hurt—a broken rib, perhaps.

"Don't move—just sit quietly in that chair!" he insisted. "I'll get To be out—we'll have help here right away—"

She was more woman than invalid and—because she had read aright the concern in his eyes—she was more interested in him at the moment than in her own physical distress. She measured Eddie and knew he was confused, excited and more than half afraid of her.

Being human, her ego was flattered and there was a faint responsive stirring of interest in her—a recognition of youth and the mysterious quality in him that drew her to him, even as it had drawn Bernice Veressi. But there was a difference in the two girls—Marian Thorndike had the resistance to nullify that appeal; also, it was her obligation to repel it. More highly evolved than Bernice, she sensed—without knowing—the dangers of a pull toward a man.

She would never throw herself at any man's head. With a stranger like Eddie Regan she was instinctively on guard.

Yet she was not cold, not afraid. But she did know, beyond doubt, that he was reaching out his man's hands to seek her capture.

For no reason that he was able exactly to analyze, his face suddenly began to flush. She had reserve and poise, but in an unguarded instant he had and a flashing glimpse of something veiled in her mind. He knew that she was aware of his enamored heart, and he burned with humiliation. That Marian Thorndike should perceive that he loved her caused him intense shame.

Yet it was not precisely shame. More accurately it was a realization of his own unworthiness. But there was no cringing inferiority about it; he had faith to aspire.

INDIFFERENT GOLF

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

Pebble Beach, Calif., Sept. 5.—For the first time in six years the National Amateur Golf championship reached the quarter-final stage today without the presence of Robert Tyre Jones, Jr., among the contestants.

The downfall of the champion occurred in the opening round at the hands of an unknown youngster, Johnny Goodman of Omaha.

Johnny turned the trick by getting the jump on Bobby and piling up a lead in the first few holes while the king of the amateurs was playing most indifferent golf.

By the time Jones rallied to square the match the champion had called upon the last of his reserve and in the final battle through the stretch it was Johnny instead of Bobby who had enough on the ball to win by one up, the match ending on the eighteenth green.

As the second amateur to defeat the Atlantan in national competition in six years the little Nebraskan boy's triumph was short lived indeed. Johnny himself was promptly eliminated in the second round by W. Lawson Little of San Francisco, who assumed the role of dark horse among the quarter-finalists.

The Pacific coast, scene of the national championship for the first time, has three golfers to represent it in the third round, the east has three and the middle west one and Great Britain one.

Pairings for the 36-hole matches today were Cyril Tolley, Great Britain Britain, vs. Dr. O. F. Willing, Portland, Ore.; Jess Sweetser, New York,

CHILEAN HAS BEEN BEATING THEM REGULARLY

ANXIOUS FOR CHANCE TO SHOW
HE HAS MERIT IN FIGHT
WITH MANDELL

IF VICTORIOUS, HE WILL BE ABLE TO FORCE MANDELL IN-TO CHAMPIONSHIP BATTLE

Chicago, Sept. 5.—(UP)—Luis Vicentini, the Chilean contender for the lightweight title who has been beating the best boys in his division with regularity, tomorrow night will get his real opportunity to show that he merits a chance at the title which Sammy Mandell now holds.

He will meet Mandell in an over the weight match in which the champion's title will not be involved but if he wins he will be able to force Mandell into a championship fight.

Despite the great boxing ability of Mandell there are many who believe that Vicentini will win. The Chilean already has demonstrated that he really knows how to fight and advance indications are that Champion Sammy Mandell will have to extend himself to win.

Vicentini must weigh at least 136 pounds to make the match a non-title affair and he probably will weigh in at about that figure. Mandell will weigh about 140 pounds.

Both fighters have concluded hard training and each continued with rope-skipping and other mill exercises today.

Their guns and other equipment should be confiscated. Every effort is to be made to stamp out this type of violation.

Sports Close-Ups—Jack Berg

By HARDIN BURNLEY

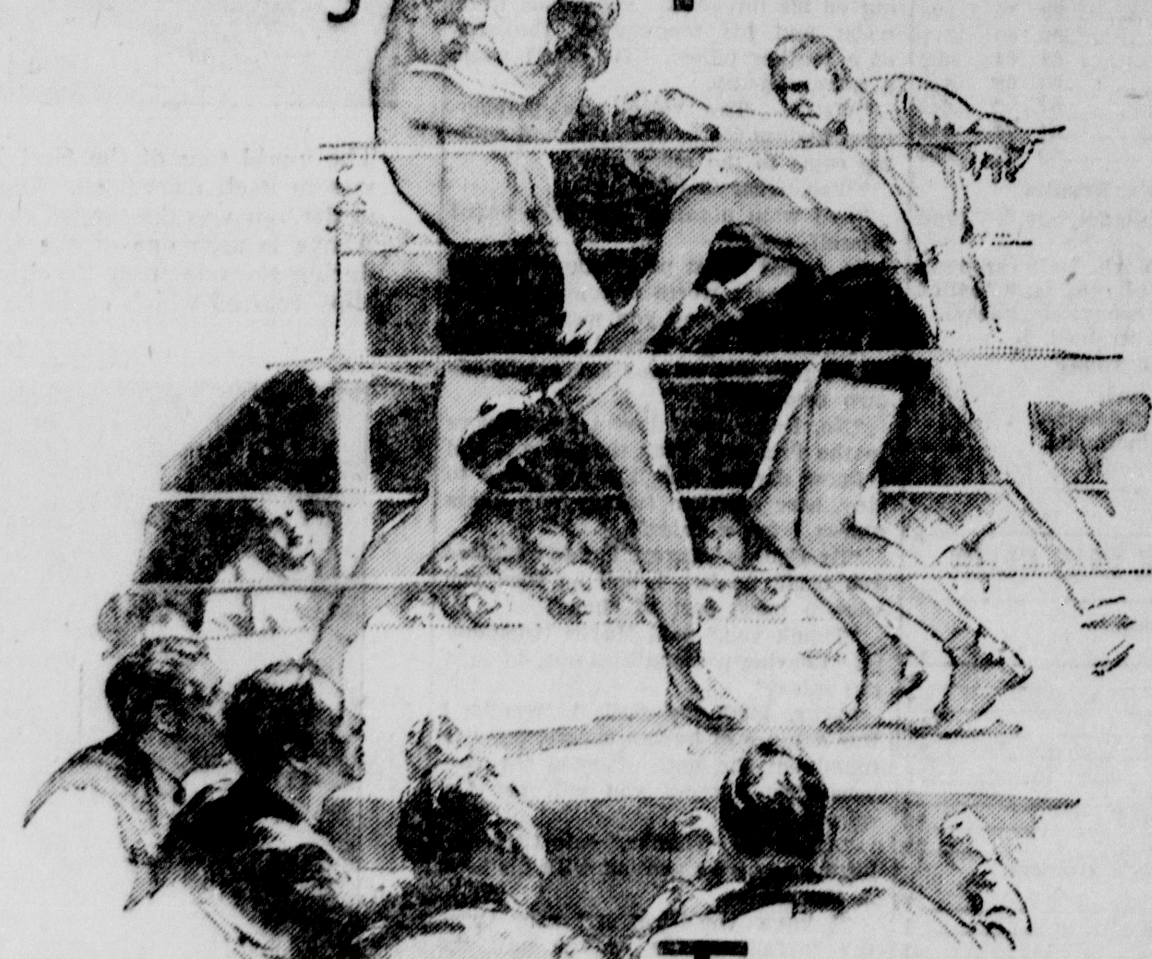

THE money makers and most popular men of the prize ring have always been the so-called "club fighters"—those busy individuals who start throwing leather with the opening gong and keep tossing until the other fellow collapses, the bout ends, or the lights go out for them.

Such a fighter is Jack Berg, of England, aptly named the "Whitechapel Limited." A veritable bulldog in action, Berg has taken this country by storm. His first appearance here, some months ago, was in Chicago, where his busy style made him a real favorite. Berg then returned to England and recently came back to the U. S. A. to continue his quest of gold and lightweight title honors.

His first match in New York was against Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle negro lightweight, who was being primed for a title bout. At the opening bell, Berg leaped from his corner and unleashed the wildest flurry of two-fisted punching that ever excited the fans of Madison Square Garden. His fighting was sensational. The Garden was seething. Flowers, unable to cope with the Englishman, fought back as best he could. But his best was not good enough. Berg kept up the maddening pace for ten rounds and was awarded the decision. They naturally were rematched and again Berg swarmed all over the New Rochelle star, and again won the decision.

Then came a sensational draw

BAD LUCK FOR ITALIANS IN CUP RACE TEST

THEIR MACCHI 52 DAMAGED AT FLOAT LANDING AFTER FLIGHT

Caishot, England, Sept. 5.—(U.P.)—Bad luck continued to pursue the Italian members of the Schneider cup team today when the Macchi 52, the machine in which Major De Barnhardi once established a world record, was damaged at the float landing after a ten-minute test flight. It was piloted by Capt. Dalmolin when the accident occurred. It was the first trial the Macchi 52 had since it was brought to England for the races.

Speed boats were rushed to the scene immediately and the nose of one of them was immediately placed under the starboard wing of the disabled plane to keep it afloat until it was taken ashore. Until today the Italian members of the Schneider cup team had hoped the Macchi 52 would participate in Saturday's race.

When Clarence Reformed

By CORONA REMINGTON

(Copyright.)

A MAN is an animal, and frequently a wild animal; but there are some, like Clarence Maxey, for instance, who are most exceedingly tame.

Clarence was a good man—a fine fellow, in fact; but he had no mysteries, and you could never expect him to do the unexpected. He was a book-keeper and liked it—never had been anything else.

Perhaps it was fate, or instinct, or human nature, or the great law of compensation, or the cussedness of things, that he should fall in love with Dorothy Dwight, the most dashing, vivacious little cashier that ever sat behind a register and wielded a lip-stick.

"I do love you, Clarence," she once said, "but you're slow! You haven't got any pep, honey. Not a bit."

That was the first time she had ever called him "honey," and it took the sting out of her rather painful criticism.

"I know it," he stammered humbly. "But you're good and you're decent, and you love me, and those three things count more than everything else put together."

"But I want to be just the kind of man you want me to be," he answered dolefully.

"Oh, you've got it in you all right. I see it in your eyes every once in a while, but the trouble is you've been brought up by two old maid aunts who probably made you go calling with them on Sunday afternoons when you ought to have been out snowballing some old man's hat off. Now, I want to meet those aunts of yours."

"But they don't even know I've got a girl," he stammered.

"Good; that's one more jolt coming their way. Trouble with you is you're scared of people. You've got a right to a girl, haven't you? Old enough to have one, aren't you? How long since you had a raise, Clarence?"

"Three years!"

"Three years! Gee! How often do you ask for one?"

"I haven't lately," he admitted. "In fact, not since I got the last one." "Gee! Good lands," said Dorothy, slapping a huge powder puff at her face. "Now, I'm going to tell you something. You're going to ask the boss for a raise and if you don't get it I'm not going to marry you."

"But, Dorothy, we're engaged!" "Never hear of a girl jilting a fellow? It isn't the money I'm after. It's the backbone. You got ten minutes of your lunch hour left; the boss doesn't leave until two; you go up and tackle him right now, and all the time you're talking to him, remember it's good-by Dorothy unless you bring him around."

Five minutes later when Clarence walked into the president's office tiny beads of perspiration were standing out on his forehead. His hands were moist and his tongue felt the size of a feather pillow. He didn't want a raise, anyway.

"Well?" The voice was peremptory. Instant flight, death—would nothing come to the rescue?

"Well, what is it?" "I—I want a raise," Clarence heard himself saying.

"A raise? Most people do. Do you think you are worth any more to the firm this year than you were last?"

A flush of anger spread across Clarence's face and he was amazed by his own retort:

"No, I don't, but I was worth more to the firm last year than I got, and I know darned well I'm not going to stay here another twenty-four hours unless I get a raise."

"By George, Maxey, I didn't believe you could do it. I had an idea you were a meek sort of chap."

"Thank you," said Maxey truculently. Leaving personalities out, do I get the raise?"

"Why, bless my soul, I thought I was a judge of human nature, but I've found out I'm not. Pardon the personalities, I guess you will get the raise."

"All right. Thanks," said Clarence, loftily, as he walked out with his head in the air.

"I knew you'd get it," said Dorothy joyfully as he walked past the little cage. "Clarence, honestly, you look two inches taller than I ever saw you before. Somehow you're different. I thought I knew you, but now I don't believe I do after all. Men are such mysteries," she sighed happily.

That night at supper Clarence broke the news to his aunts.

"Going to get married," he said. "Pass the bread, please."

"Oh, Clarence, you? Marry? Aunt Hannah squeaked faintly.

"I'd like to know why in thunder not," he demanded.

"Dear, dear," said Aunt Agatha. "I can hardly believe it's our little Clarence—he was always such a gentle, sweet boy."

"Oh, h—!" said Clarence fervently, and went up to his room.

A few minutes later he heard his aunt's voice in the hall below. She was evidently talking over the phone.

"Yes, we're awfully proud of him. Of course he talks to us as if we were brainless babies, but most men think women are that, anyway."

"Lord love Dorothy," sighed Clarence giving credit where credit was due.

Amazing Story of Navigation

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Much of the old music for songs used to be written for singing with voices in unison. Later chorus music was in "four part songs" for singing school use—those singing schools which two generations ago offered some of the social opportunities of the present "movies." Something like this has happened in costume planning.

There was once upon a time a great belief in unison in color to be worn. Dame Fashion remembers a journey made at nineteen from Washington to Ohio, when there was a bride near her in the sleeper. She was quite talkative, telling of "quarts of rice thrown," and finally lifting modestly her long dress skirt of rich dark green wool material, so that her high shoes might be seen, made from the same green cloth, "to order." The more carefully matched the accessories, the more satisfied the bride or traveler felt with her apparel.

Today the "four part song" is nearer the ideal, in costume harmony. Bathing suits, pajamas, lingerie, morning dresses, sports wear and party gowns of all varieties take to many colors as joyfully as did Joseph's coat. When these many colors have the names of pretty flowers and gems, just the description of a gown becomes almost a line of poetry; as for instance, a "formal" compounded of tulle in shades of Parma violet, cyclamen pink and turquoise.

Paris, even Paris, has seemed to decide that the backless suits for daytime wear have not been a success. Tanning is good, but women may decide that it is possible to have too much of a good thing. Nobody seems to have worried over the backless suits very much, one way or the other. There were always many to whom they did not appeal, and those who did try them, either for bathing or sports wear, caused no sensation. A voyage to the South Sea islands may be a romantic thing, but it is hard to believe that American women and girls are really sighing to be South Sea Islanders. Indeed, as the summer advanced, Paris, which will always use black for everything from little baby's dresses to grandmother gowns, if it has half a chance, declared that the most popular bathing suit was a black one, embroidered with flags of different nations. Whether the D. A. R. and the secretary of war would approve of the stars and stripes worn on a bathing suit scarcely needs discussion.

No girl has a "beau" in these days. That word is as extinct as the dodo. But every girl and woman surely has "bows" on her dresses. Looking the other day at a large number of the newest of the new gowns, it was found that out of every ten, six had bows in various spots of the dress anatomy. Some were bows of the trimming material, some were cloth bows of the dress material, some were combined of the two so that both appeared in the bow when tied. Several were soft bows down from collars, some were tied at the side, as low as the hip-line, some may be at the back of the neck,—but at any rate, a dress without its bow begins to look lonely.

Perhaps women have taken another leaf from the man's book. For a man without a tie may feel comfortable, he may feel athletic, but without his necktie bow he never feels really dressed.

Early Grain Storage

The invention of pottery was the outgrowth of the desire to contribute ease in the storing of grain. The necessity for laying by food material to forefend famine by practice of storage stimulated the ingenuity of the pre-dynastic Egyptians to create vessels in which to hold grain. It has its similarity in the elevator system for grain storage that obtains in the United States.

Mental Fatigue Dangerous

Monotonous work, depressing emotions, uncongenial surroundings are all common causes of mental fatigue. Mild symptoms of mental fatigue are irritability, restlessness, loss of interest, headache, inattentiveness, inefficiency and a tired feeling. If the condition is not relieved, more severe signs may follow, such as inability to concentrate and solve problems, inability to fix the attention and insomnia.—Hygeia Magazine.

10,000 LAKES FUR FARMS FACE CHARGES

State Securities Commission Hears of Alleged Mulcting of $400,000 From Company

COURT ACTION STARTED

Investor Kills Self; Corporation Formerly Had Offices Here; Operate Farms Near Here

Charges that stockholders of the Ten Thousand Lakes Fur Farms, Inc., St. Paul, had been mulcted of $400,000 and that losses caused the suicide late Wednesday of A. E. Chellens, Huntington, W. Va., an investor, were made at St. Paul today by the state securities commission, according to the United Press.

The charges were made by Robert Forrest, assistant State Game and Fish Commissioner, and O. A. Dahlberg, chairman of the stockholders' committee, and followed court action instituted to force the fur company into receivership.

Chellens, according to the charges, had invested $4,500 with Albert E. Robbins, president of the concern, and when he learned of the receivership action Wednesday he hanged himself in one of the barns owned by the company at Battle Creek, a short distance from St. Paul. The body was found a few hours later.

Stockholders charged through Dahlberg, that the fur company claimed to own many more animals than actually were kept on the farm.

As far as can be learned there are no Brainerd people who invested money in the company although the corporation formerly maintained an office here for more than six months.

Included in the farms operated by the company are: The Pine River Muskrat Colony on the Little Pine River, Clear Lake Muskrat Ranch at Clear Lake, Brainerd-Oak Lawn Muskrat Ranch on Highway No. 2 between Brainerd and Crosby and the Brainerd-Oak Lawn Ranch "A" near Clearwater, Minn.

FAILS TO LINK DEAD BANDIT WITH HOLDUP

Former Bank Clerk Fails to Identify Peterson as One of Ironton Bank Bandits

Efforts to link Gilbert Peterson, the bandit who was slain during an attempted holdup at Minneapolis late Monday, with the $35,000 robbery of the First National Bank of Ironton, Nov. 9, 1929, failed at Minneapolis today when C. E. Olson, a former bank clerk, failed to identify the dead man as one of the robbers, a United Press dispatch states.

Olson, who was in the Ironton bank when it was raided by a bandit gang, went to the Mill City at the request of Sheriff Claus A. Theorin of Brainerd in an attempt to learn if Peterson was one of the robbers.

Shortly after Olson viewed the body of Peterson, who was shot down by detectives during an attempt to hold up the Pure Oil Company offices, funeral services for the bandit were conducted in St. Paul.

Meanwhile police continued to question Bill Finn, companion of Peterson, who was wounded when he walked into the carefully laid police trap, in an effort to link him with a score of recent northwest crimes including the $8,000 robbery last week of a Pequot bank.

Finn has a glaring police record which includes 32 arrests, a jail break and a half dozen convictions. He also is suspected of participation in the Ironton bank robbery.

9 YR. OLD NAPOLEON HEADS PLUNDERERS

Youthful Leader in Series of Petty Crimes Attempts Jail Break

Ironton Police Blame Youth for Breakin at Store, Stoning of Neighbors

A nine year old Ironton boy leader, a boy Napoleon who has caused Ironton police no little worry through his escapades the past summer, adopted ingenious methods to effect a jail break yesterday afternoon from that section of the jail specially created for juvenile delinquents after being committed from the county juvenile court to the juvenile reform school at Red Wing.

The youth, asserted by authorities to be a leader of boys older than himself, screeched at the top of his lungs, demanding his immediate release and partly tearing a screen from the window as his older sister attempted to work her way into the jail by pounding at the door, further demanding the boy's release.

A parent stood on the sidewalk and thumbed his nose at a jail official who was forced to eject the girl from the interior of the building before restoring order.

The youth's commitment came following his arraignment on three offenses this summer. Previously Judge L. B. Kinder hesitated about issuing commitment orders because of his tender years.

Police of Ironton reported they were troubled first three months ago by the youth who went through a Northern Pacific train and stole a satchel. Later, they asserted, he was accused of stoning a neighbor and using abusive and indecent language. Recently the boy led other youths in a break-in of an Ironton store where $30 in goods was stolen, they said.

The "kid leader" is further accused of being in command of a number of boys who looted a vegetable wagon and stole articles from a carnival.

An 11 year old boy is under a suspended commitment because of his part in the workings of the youthful marauders. Two others are to be brought before juvenile court this afternoon.

A New Door needed on the Back Porch

The Back Door looks a little neglected, doesn't it? For one thing, the screening has rusted and fallen away in spots. Doesn't keep the flies out. And the delivery boys and the Joe man have soiled the woodwork. It does look mussy. It isn't much of a job to put in new netting and to paint the main door and the frame of the other. Let's get busy. What do you say?

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25¢ today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store, Johnson's Pharmacy and Economy Drug Company.

Zonite

For Cuts and Wounds

Prevent infection! Treat every cut, wound or scratch with this powerful non-poisonous antiseptic. Zonite actually kills germs. Helps to heal, too.
